Responding to Adolescents – Helping Relationships Skills for Youth Workers, Mentors and other Advisers
by Angela M. Taylor, 2003 (RHP)

Book provides practical suggestions for youth workers and other professionals in developing one-to-one helping relationships with young people aged between 12 and 19. It focuses on the relationships, issues and problem areas of personal development. It emphasises values, responsible practice, beginnings and endings, and the active discouragement of dependency. It does not aim at the clinic or the couch but at staff and mentors who work with young people in cafes and clubs, showing how to arrest problems through early intervention.

Youth Work Process, Product and Practice – Creating an Authentic Curriculum in Work with Young People by John Ord, 2007 (RHP) The context for this book is the ever-widening gap between youth work theory and youth work practice, in which practice continues to be ever more informed and delivered according to a curriculum, and yet the dominant philosophy of informal education continues to claim curriculum is anathema to it. This book sets out to solve this dilemma by formulating a viable theoretical base for curriculum in youth work. It analyses curriculum theory from the formal educational sector, and assesses its suitability for a youth work curriculum. Price: €20.00
